CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 9 .- S. A Barker of Silver Creek, Neb., obtained judgment in the United States court a judgment in the United States court here today against Robert Smiley of Rawlins, Wyo., for $8,000. The case has been in the courts since 1892 and arose from Smiley retaining an advance payment of $6,000 made by Parker on a band of sheep he had contracted to purchase, but which he failed to take. Barker sued to recover and obtained judgment for the $6,000 with interest for four years. The case will be taken to the court of appeals.

A Ciose Watch.

(Special to The Herald.) CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 9.-No election returns from outlying districts in this state have been received here Corrected returns from several precincts add slightly to the Demo cratic vote. The Democratic committee reports the Big Horn returns received ast night from five precincts give Democratic majorities for their electoral and congressional ticket of 52 votes in a cotal of 306, and now claim the election of their entire ticket by majorities ranging from 200 to 506. Both state committees have sent delegations into Big Horn county to watch the official canvass of the vote. It is expected definite and complete returns will be received tomorrow.

(Special to The Herald.) CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 9.—Details vere received here today of the shooting, on election day, of Charles Murray a tie contractor in the Big Horn mount by Fred. Hyle, a sulconkeeper of wood, Sheridan county. Hyle, who himself up after the shooting. gave filmsen up after the shooting says that Murray was trying to get be-hind the bar to attack him, and as he had the reputation of being a "bad man." he shot him to protect his own life. Killed by a Bear. TROY, Mon., Nov. 9 .- Rev. Charles D. Mentor was attacked by a bear near this point, and torn to pieces in a desperate fight. He had been out with a hunting party and Saturday sought adventure alone in the hills. That night he did not return, and when morning came a relief party was organized and search was instituted for him. Several miles from the camp the searchers found blood on the snow, and later came to a place where a terrible searchers found blood on the snow, and later came to a place where a terrible struggle had taken place. The trail in the snow to the point where the animal had dragged the body was followed and what was left of it was found mangied, torn and shredded. The fight must have been a fearful one. The body had been partially devoured by the animal when the relief party arrived.

Weakness of the Lungs.

'I was in such a condition that whenever I got a little cold it would settle on my chest and lungs. I was troubled in this way for several years. I tried many kinds of medicines but did not get any relief from them, and seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised I thought I would try it. I took about four bottles of this medicine and I began to improve after the first bottle. When I had finished the fourth bottle I was entirely relieved. I have kept Hood's Sarsaparilla on hand since that time as a family medicine, and whenever I feel out of sorts I resort to Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a short time it sets me right." W. B. She strutted off prouder by far than any tine lady ever was a close friend of Robert Thomas of the Jeanette, who was shot and killed while tryling to desert from his vessel to treach the role mines of the Yukon.

Fiset was with Thomas in the attempt to desert. Their vessel had caught practically nothing and they had little hopes of gaining anything but the rough experience in a whaler's forecastle at the end of the voyage. They had both been rearied in refined homes, but a wild life had estranged them from society. They rebelled at their treatment by the officers of the vessel, who made no distinction between them and the vileat of the men before the mast. They joined with 12 others to desert and trust to luck to reach the Yukon. They broke finto the storeroom of the whaling fleet's head quarters on Herschel island, look gume and supplies and with the barometer 52 degrees below zero started on their long tramp.

A NOVEL COSTUME.

It is not often that an Indian becomes mixed up in politics, but such was the case yesterday. Indian Mary was the woman in the case, and the incident was very amusing. Mary, as is well known, dislikes to have anything go to waste, and makes systematic calls from house to house to collect cast-off clothing, food, money, or anything else. Yesterday the thrifty relict of "Old Soidier" called at a well known livery stable and asked to be given a number of banners and streamers which had done duty on the horses and vehicles hird hy the stable. was the woman in the case, and the streamers which had done duty on the horses and vehicles hired by the stable-keeper on election day. Her request was granted, and Mary was the most pleased woman in Ogden. The gaudy lettering on the banners was in direct accord with her ideas of aesthetic robing. Then and there she arrayed herself in the fihery and truly Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed as was she, and her costume represented as many different candidates as Jacob's coat did colors. The city council met last night with all members present.

A number of taxes and licenses, amounting to $20.25, were remitted.

The report of the committee on license, recommending that Enoch Inglebreitsen be allowed to sell fish without a license, was rejected after much discussion, and on motion of Conroy, the license was remitted for four months. The bill of Vach Astill for $20 for rent of the ground for the Five Points fire station was allowed.

Miscellaneous claims amounting to $346 were allowed, but the bill for electric lighting was taken out, and the council, at the close of the regular session, went into executive session to devise some means for getting a rebate on those lights which do not burn, amounting to one-third of the whole.

A GROWLER HUMBLED.

How a Chicago Conductor Was Disciplined by a Passenger.

Chicago Chronicle: He was a Statetreet car conductor of most surly and disarrecable temper. When a woman carrying altogether too large a bundle for her strength bearded the car he grumbled a running five minutes straight about the perversity of human nature in general and of the feminine sex in particular. A few moments before he had victously kicked at a newsboy who dared stand on the phriform while selling a newspaper. At Adams street a portly military looking gentleman and his wife got on the car. "That is the smallest I have," said the military gentleman, as he tendered a $5 bill for fare.

The conductor growled again and grumbled inaudibibly, but finally dug into his pocket for the change. First he gave two silver doclars, then 90 cents—all in dimes—and then the baldisagreeable temper. When a woman

Now it so hippened that in the change made a very bad quarter was given. The military gentleman was on the point of calling the surry conductor back when he discovered that the lacback when he discovered that the latter had handed him nine instead of eight quarters. That decided him to hold his peace; he wasn't out in any event. They had ridden quite a distance when the surly conductor came
